New Telstar Put In Orbit

TV Link With Europe Restored

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—America shot a second Telstar satellite into orbit Tuesday, re-establishing a live television link with Europe in plenty of time for this nation's next space age spectacular—the planned day-long orbiting of astronaut L. Gordon Cooper.

The $3-million payload rode aloft aboard a nine-story tall Delta rocket, which recorded its 17th success in 18 outings.

Telstar-2 was launched at 7:38 a.m. EDT and scientists confirmed the orbit about five hours later, at 12:21 p.m.

It took the small silvery satellite three hours and 41 minutes to complete its first sweep of the earth.

Scientists said there was also the possibility that Japan could tie into the hook up.

Telstar-1, launched into orbit on July 10, 1962, brought European television instantly into American living rooms. U.S. families saw the Polies Bergiere and the Elffel Tower for the first time. Europeans watched part of a baseball game and part of a news conference held by President Kennedy.

Telstar-2 represents another step toward a worldwide system in which satellites will act as relay stations for television, telephone, telegraph, photographs and other means of communications.

The second Telstar carried special radiation protection devices and was placed in an orbit where it would meet less radiation than Telstar-1. Radiation knocked out a transistor and silenced the signal of Telstar-1 on Feb. 21.

Space agency spokesmen and officials of AT&T, which built both Telstars, hinted the new satellite might be used to carry television pictures from the United States of Cooper's 22-orbit flight and beam them to Europe at the speed of light.

Cooper is scheduled to be hurled into space from here May 14.

Woman Prefers Seeing Eye Dog To Partial Sight

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Blind Alicia Stirling of Glasgow has refused an operation to restore her sight because she cannot bear to part with her guide dog, Susie.

Under the rules of the Guide Dog for the Blind Association, dogs have to be returned for service elsewhere if the owner recovers sight.

Mrs. Stirling, 54, the wife of a Baptist minister, has been blind for 20 years. She has had Susie for three of those years.

"She has taught me new pleasures and given me new confidence," says Mrs. Stirling. "The partial sight I would get back if the operation was successful would definitely not compensate me for the loss of my friend Susie."

Congressional Junket Curbs Voted By House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House voted Tuesday to clamp new restrictions on congressional junketing, but the move may die in the Senate.

By a vote of 384 to 2, the House approved and sent to the Senate legislation that would limit the amount of U.S. or foreign currencies members of Congress and their employees can spend on foreign trips.

It would require publication of expense accounts.

Debate was brief, but Rep. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., echoed the feelings of some members with a contention there should not be a blanket restriction. He said those who abuse their travel privileges should be singled out and made to refund excessive charges.

The Senate Rules Committee has promised prompt and careful consideration of the bill. But the Senate is not generally considered to view it with favor.

The measure is at least partly an outgrowth of criticism of a trip to Europe last year by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., with two women staff aides.

250 Troopers Are Ordered To Steel City

Officers Stoned
By Demonstrators;
Fire Hoses Used

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Negro demonstrators overwhelmed local police by sheer force of numbers on two occasions Tuesday and Gov. George C. Wallace ordered 250 highway patrolmen to come to the aid of this strife-torn city.

President Kennedy was reported keeping a close watch on the situation from Washington. Sources said the President had been in continuous contact with his brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Fire hoses again were used to rout demonstrators when they began hurling rocks at police and firemen, once from the steps of a church.

The clash occurred after thousands of Negroes had twice outflanked authorities and swept into the downtown section where they sang and chanted anti-segregation protests.

Three-Hour Demonstration

Alabama patrol Director Al Lingo said in Montgomery he and a contingent of his men were moving into the steel city.

The massive demonstrations Tuesday started shortly before 3 p.m. EDT and lasted for nearly three hours.

There was no violence during the first two sweeps into the downtown area and police contented themselves with prodding the demonstrators back to the Negro section with night sticks.

But when the fire hoses were turned on in an effort to stop a third invasion of the business district some of the Negroes became angry and started pelting authorities with rocks.

For the next hour and a half police and the demonstrators fought hit-and-run battles along the streets, with authorities trying constantly to force the Negroes back to the 16th Street Baptist Church that has served as their rallying point.

Three Policemen Injured

When at last they succeeded, scores of the demonstrators stood on the church steps and continued to hurl rocks at officers and firemen.

"Don't you turn that water hose on our church," the Negroes shouted.

While this battle was in progress, other firemen moved along adjacent thoroughfares washing down the streets, forcing stragglers to flee before the torrents of water.

By late afternoon, most of the drenched demonstrators had cleared out.

At least three policemen were injured during Tuesday's demonstrations, which brought only a relatively few arrests. Police Monday picked up 850 of the demonstrators, bringing the total for the past month to about 2,200.

Reluctant Suitor

LE MANS, France (AP)—Sentimental gendarmes let Serge Girard out of jail to be married. He's back behind bars—still a bachelor. The farm worker, who was jailed originally for a $12 holdup to buy a ring, failed to show up at his wedding, explaining, "I didn't have a good enough suit."

Three Workers Die In A-Sub Flash Fire

Tragedy Hits Thresher's Sister Ship

GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—A flash fire Tuesday swept a section of the atomic attack submarine Thresher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, trapping and killing three workmen crammed in the submarine's aft ballast tanks. Two other men were injured.

The fire took place at the General Dynamics electric boat yard where the Thresher, named for the submarine that sank the most Japanese tonnage in World War II, is under construction. The tragedy came less than a month after the atomic submarine Thresher failed to make it back to the surface after a deep dive 220 miles of Cape Cod in the Atlantic and sank to the bottom with 129 men aboard.

The men killed were identified as Lawrence W. Stinson, 20, Waterford, Conn.; Joseph S. Baczenski, 26, Coventry, R.I.; and Donald C. Jordan, 27, of Groton.

Jordan and Baczenski were painters and Stinson was employed as an apprentice painter.

The two injured men, Stanley Jusczyk, 35, West Warwick, R.I., a painter, and John D. Gulluscio, 28, Westerly, R.I., were rushed to a hospital. Jusczyk was critically burned. Gulluscio, a welding supervisor, was treated for smoke inhalation, but was not considered in serious condition.

The ballast tank where the men were trapped is called a trim tank. It is used for ballast to keep the submarine riding evenly or to enable it to dive or surface.

It was so cramped that rescuers were forced to cut a hole in the side of it to remove the three bodies.

General Dynamics officials said the accident was the worst nuclear submarine program was put into operation in 1952.

The officials said the fire was quickly extinguished and did not seriously damage the submarine. They said the sub's nuclear power plant was not harmed.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. The Navy ordered an investigation.

Canada To Evacuate Citizens In Haiti

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada announced Tuesday that Canadian citizens in Haiti will be evacuated starting Wednesday.

Foreign Secretary Paul Martin said dependents of Canadian government employees in Haiti have been ordered to leave and other Canadians are being encouraged to do so.

A government spokesman said more than 600 Canadians are registered at the Canadian mission in Haiti. Most are Roman Catholic missionaries.

Plan For JFK Visit

NEW ROSS, Ireland (AP)—The advance guard for President Kennedy's visit to his ancestral home town next month met civic officials Tuesday to arrange details. The party of 20 is headed by the President's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, and appointments secretary, Ken O'Donnell.

GOP Vows Fight Against Further Hike In Debt Lid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans announced Tuesday that in the name of "responsible fiscal policy" they will fight to hold the national debt ceiling at its present level of $305 billion.

They took this stand in the face of Treasury estimates that the public debt will pierce the legal ceiling in three weeks unless Congress acts to raise it.

A bill to raise the limit temporarily to $307 billion through Aug. 31 has been set for House action Thursday.

Democratic leaders, visibly worried by indications of near-solid Republican opposition and possible defections of some Democrats, hinted the bill may be put aside while efforts are made to strengthen administration forces.

The battle lines were drawn in the report on the legislation published Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Democratic majority quoted Treasury figures estimating the debt will reach $305.2 billion on May 29. The same figures showed that by the last week of June, when under present law the ceiling would drop to $300 billion, the debt would reach $5.3 billion above this figure. And the law now provides for a further drop to $285 billion July 1.

The Democrats said the raise they recommend is less than the Treasury asked for.

However, a separate report by all 10 Republican members of the committee said, "A debt ceiling of $305 billion is adequate (although) not comfortable for the Treasury, unless closer controls are maintained on spending."

Princeton Students Riot; 14 Charged

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—A mob of almost 1,000 Princeton University students rampaged Tuesday in a disturbance that reached the lawn of Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

The rioting students tore up, pushed over or burned almost everything in their path before being turned back after three hours by the full force of borough police and university proctors—security officers.

Fourteen students were booked on disorderly persons charges Tuesday morning and released on $25 bail each to await hearings on May 20 in Magistrate's Court.

Body Flown Home

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—The body of an American Army lieutenant executed by Communist Viet Cong guerrillas with two of his South Vietnamese comrades was flown home Monday.

The Army identified him as 1st Lt. Parker D. Cramer of Wantagh (L.I.) N.Y. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cramer of 3460 Bunker Ave., Wantagh.

Evacuation Via Airlift Starts Today

Dominican Leader
Charges Embassy
Still Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department ordered an airlift evacuation Tuesday of U.S. officials' families from Haiti and urged private American citizens also to leave the troubled country.

Extra Pan American World Airways flights—up to six, or more if needed—will start ferrying the 220 dependents of U.S. officials from Port au Prince to Miami on Wednesday morning. The department said it does not yet know how many of the 1,300 nonofficial Americans, mostly businessmen, will choose to depart too.

The approximately 180 U.S. diplomats and military mission members are to remain in Port au Prince despite cool relations between Washington and the dictatorship of Francois Duvalier.

State Department authorities said they decided on the evacuation Monday, with President Kennedy's approval, because of "the continued deterioration of the situation in Haiti and the difficulty of insuring the lives and safety of U.S. citizens."

But they said the withdrawal was due to the continued internal dangers under Duvalier's terror rule—rather than because of any mounting prospect of invasion from the neighboring Dominican Republic.

Bosch Levels Charges; U.N. Aims Crisis Today

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Despite a peace overture from Haiti, President Juan Bosch charged Tuesday that Haitian guns and soldiers hidden in trees still menaced the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince. Once more, he warned he might have to resort to military force.

In the explosive situation, the United States ordered dependents of 280 U.S. diplomatic and military personnel in Haiti to leave and will begin an airlift Wednesday. It suggested that others in the 1,300-member American community in Haiti also get out.

Britain announced it is prepared to withdraw 200 British subjects in Haiti.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, the Security Council was ordered to meet in urgent session Wednesday on Haiti's complaint that it is being threatened by the Dominican Republic.

Haitian Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers flew to New York to lead his delegation in the debate on the Haitian charges. Before he left Port au Prince, Chalmers said the Haitian government was meeting a Dominican demand to guarantee safety for Haitians sheltered in the Dominican Embassy there. This is the chief cause of tensions between the two countries.

But in a message to the Organization of American States, Bosch charged that Haitian military forces had set up machine guns on the sidewalks outside the Dominican Embassy and that there are "armed soldiers in the trees in front of our diplomatic mission."

He said 22 Haitian political refugees in the embassy were in a "desperate situation." Haiti promised that 15 of these refugees would be given safe conduct passes out of Haiti. The remaining seven would be protected by Colombian diplomats who have taken charge of the Dominican Embassy. Haiti and the Dominican Republic, neighbors on the island of Hispaniola, have broken diplomatic relations.

Negro Pilot Offered Job By Continental

DENVER (UPI)—Continental Airlines Tuesday offered a job to Negro Marlon D. Green, who fought to the U.S. Supreme Court to break the pilot color bar in the airline industry.

Continental said Green, if he accepts, would be assigned to the airline's next aircraft qualification class, to be formed within the next three months.

Green, employed by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation in Denver, was not available for comment. The nation's highest court ruled April 22 the Colorado Anti-Discrimination Commission could force Continental, under state law, to hire the former Air Force captain who had been trying for years to get a job as an airline pilot.

Drought Hits Malaya

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—Moslem and Hindu leaders are arranging religious rites to pray for an end of one of Malaya's worst droughts in recent times.

Pressman, D'Alesandro Win Races

BALTIMORE (AP)—Republican Theodore R. McKeldin overcame an early deficit Tuesday night and won election as mayor of Baltimore over Democrat Philip H. Goodman.

Goodman's Democratic ticket had been supported by President Kennedy in a tape recording Goodman played frequently during his campaign.

McKeldin, who always has drawn heavy bipartisan support in Maryland, was mayor of Baltimore from 1943 to 1947 and governor from 1951 to 1959. He nominated Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at the 1952 Republican convention.

McKeldin drew 56 per cent of the vote.

There were 70,610 registered Republicans and 302,786 registered Democrats. There were 6,633 unaffiliated voters.

The unofficial vote, with all 558 polling places reported, was:

For mayor—
Goodman 104,018
McKeldin 109,407

For president of the city council—
D'Alesandro 135,163
Gerstung 67,794
For comptroller—
Hergenroeder 99,008
Pressman 104,858

Goodman has been mayor since last December, when J. Harold Grady resigned to become a judge. Goodman overwhelmed three chief opponents in the March primary. McKeldin based his campaign against Goodman on charges Goodman was dominated by political bosses.

Pressman, Baltimore political watchdog and attorney, ran for comptroller in the primary as a Democrat but lost to Hergenroeder by 1,045 votes. McKeldin invited him to join the Republican ticket when W. Rae Dempsey stepped down as a candidate in the face of a grand jury investigation of a firm he once headed.

The ballast tank where the men were trapped is called a trim tank. It is used for ballast to keep the submarine riding evenly or to enable it to dive or surface.

It was so cramped that rescuers were forced to cut a hole in the side of it to remove the three bodies.

General Dynamics officials said the accident was the worst nuclear submarine program was put into operation in 1952.

The officials said the fire was quickly extinguished and did not seriously damage the submarine. They said the sub's nuclear power plant was not harmed.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. The Navy ordered an investigation.

HST To Mark 79th Birthday

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman says he doesn't think much of birthdays anymore but he is having his 79th Wednesday anyway.

"I wish they would forget about my birthday," he said. "They only make me a year older."

But the former president enjoys the annual gathering of friends for his birthday luncheon.

The years haven't slowed him down too much. He was on the shelf a while last January after a hernia operation, but he's back and following a busy schedule.

Just last week he announced plans for the production of 26 half-hour television shows to portray the major events of his nearly eight years in the White House. He will appear in each one.

He drives his car to his office in the Truman Library in Independence — he doesn't walk as much as he did.

JFK Hopes Birmingham Can Solve Racial Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy voiced hope Tuesday night that the potentially explosive racial situation in Birmingham can be solved by the people of the city.

Kennedy's hopes were relayed to reporters while the administration kept a long-distance watch on the troubles in Alabama's biggest city.

The President was awaiting word on the outcome of a meeting in Birmingham between Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice, and various Negro and white groups.

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, said

Hatcher told reporters: "The President continues to hope that this situation can be resolved by the people of Birmingham themselves. And this, of course would be the most ideal situation."

Briton, Russian Plead Guilty At Red Spy Trial

MOSCOW (AP) — A confessed British spy and a confessed Russian traitor, glaring with hate at each other, pleaded guilty in a Soviet court Tuesday to charges that they relayed Soviet secrets to the West through the U.S. and British embassies.

The Briton was Greville Wynne, 42, a businessman who has made about eight trips to the Soviet Union. The Russian was Oleg Penkovsky, 43, a former official of the Soviet Committee for Coordination of Scientific Research.

And from far back in the audience, Wynne's wife Sheila waved to him and he smiled broadly back at her from the dock even though prison gates seem to be yawning for him.

Wynne pleaded guilty to active espionage as outlined in the indictment read at the opening of the court, but insisted he held "certain reservations which I will make in my statement" later in the trial.

Penkovsky—gray, erect and looking like the colonel he used to be—pleaded guilty to high treason, without reservations.

But as the first day of the trial ended he responded to questions by his defense lawyer to try to show he had once been a good and loyal Soviet citizen.

"I never at any time doubted the correctness of the system," he shouted.

But he also testified that during the past two years he smuggled nearly 5,000 photographs of Russian documents, machinery and other things of a secret nature—to British and American intelligence agents.

Penkovsky pointed an accusing finger at American and British Embassy personnel in Moscow and others in London and Paris as he told how he had turned over secret information on rockets, artillery, the Soviet economy and politics.

By his own confession he lived it up happily in Paris and London, tried on British and American uniforms with the prospect of fleeing to safety in the West. Then the ax fell and Soviet police got him. A possible sentence for his crime is death before a firing squad.

Railroads Claim Deal Will Doom Coal Pipeline

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Central Railroad disclosed Tuesday a 10-year agreement calling for three railroads to deliver 45 million tons of coal to a Cleveland electric utility and thereby gain about $100 million.

Arthur E. Baylis, vice president in marketing for the New York Central, said the arrangement would mean roughly $100 million in combined revenues to the Central, the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Nickel Plate Railroad.

In addition, Baylis said, it will sound the death knell for transportation of coal in slurry form by pipeline. Slurry is finely crushed coal mixed with water.

The utility involved is Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., which since 1957 has been receiving large coal tonnages through a 108-mile pipeline extending to Cadiz, Ohio.

The pipeline, the only one of its kind now in service, will be shut down not later than July 1, the New York Central official said. Baylis called the agreement, firmed up at a meeting last night of the three railroads involved, a major victory not only for the three carriers but for railroads in general.

In recent years major railroads in the east have been under heavy pressure from the threat of new coal pipelines, especially a $400-million project intended to transport slurry from West Virginia coal-fields to the New York City area.

Baylis said a planned reduction of 61 cents a ton in present coal freight rates was instrumental in bringing about the agreement.

5 Indicted In Abortion Death

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore grand jury indicted five persons Tuesday in the abortion death of a New Jersey teacher found dead last week outside a suburban estate.

The jury charged Mrs. Hilda Williams, 61, with manslaughter in the death of Angela Lach, 28, a Sayreville, N.J. teacher. Mrs. Williams was also charged with illegally abortion.

The same charge, in a separate indictment, was lodged against Solomon Goodman, 54, a Baltimore night club operator; Ernest T. Fieni, 43, a New York salesman; Dorothy Hill, 34, of Baltimore; and Nancy Lang, 25, of Boring, Md.

Miss Lach's rain-soaked body was found last Monday night in the driveway of an estate outside Baltimore. She lay face up, clad in a two-piece rose-colored wool suit and black shoes. A purse with $12 in it was found nearby.

Inspector Elmer Adams of the Baltimore County police said a scribbled phone number found in her purse led police to the arrest of the salesman. He was at a motel outside of the city.

In other charges Tuesday the jury accused Goodman and Fieni of conspiracy to cause the abortion. The indictment listed the conspiracy at April 14. The men also were charged as accessories before the fact of manslaughter.

The Hill and Lang women were named as accessories after the fact.

Dillion Declares No Recession In Sight

NEW YORK (AP)—There is no recession in the nation's economy on the horizon, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said Tuesday.

He told the New York Chamber of Commerce that he was "hardly inclined, either by belief or by occupation, to predict that a recession was in the offing."

"On the contrary," he said, "despite our high rate of unemployment I believe that our present economic activity shows every promise of continuing on the upswing."

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission will open bids May 23 on contracts for manufacture and erection of signs and guard rails, painting of traffic lines and electrical work on the Northeastern Expressway.

The expressway, which will stretch 48 miles from Baltimore City to the Delaware line, is scheduled for completion in November. It is to be opened simultaneously with the 11-mile-long Delaware Turnpike.

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — A 15-year-old boy was indicted Tuesday on a charge of criminally assaulting a 19-year-old girl and two young men were accused of aiding him.

The Cecil County grand jury indicted Charles King, 23, and James E. Hall, 22, on charges of abetting in the assault. Names of the girl and the 15-year-old defendant were not released.

Authorities said the boy was out on bail at the time of the assault, April 25, on a charge of robbery in Kent County.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The trial of a night club dancer charged with murdering a Filipino physician has been postponed for a second time.

Maxine Gross, 20, accused in the slaying of Dr. DeoGracias DeLeon, 29, of Manila, last November, had been scheduled to go on trial next Monday in Youth Court before Judge Reuben Oppenheimer.

Deputy State's Attorney Charles E. Moylan Jr. said the trial has been postponed to May 27 because mental tests ordered by the court are not complete. The case was first set for trial April 29.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Legislative Council will organize Wednesday for its study of proposals to be made to the General Assembly next February.

Sen. William S. James, D-Harford, the council president, will name the chairmen of special and standing committees.

The Council is composed of 10 members each from the House and Senate.

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Mayor Hugh T. Cropper Jr. says there will be a curfew of some sort for young people at this resort town this year but it won't run all summer long.

The mayor said the exact form of the curfew is yet to be determined. Cropper said the constitutionality of the present curfew has been questioned.

It provides for ordering persons under 25 off the streets and was used last Labor Day weekend when 49 persons were arrested in riots.

Wives, T-Bone Steaks Have Day At IRS Expense Account Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wives, T-bone steaks, the little guy, traveling salesmen—they all had their champions Tuesday before the Internal Revenue Service.

None of their spokesmen liked the proposed new regulations on what is deductible on expense account spending. They spoke up at a public hearing.

The farmer got into it via the T-bone steak route, in a kind of house-that-Jack-built way:

He feeds the cow that furnishes the prime beef that makes the T-bones that grace the menus of high-class restaurants that say they've been hurt by confusion on the new regulations.

The price drop in prestige beef cuts is largely due to the reported decline in the business volume of fashionable restaurants, testified B. H. Jones, associate secretary treasurer of the National Livestock Feeders Association.

Furthermore, he said, the price for prime beef, at the top of the scale, sets the tone of the general market.

Mayor Francis H. Morris, Salisbury, Md., speaking for the American Institute of Supply Associations—plumbing, heating and cooling equipment—wanted wives at conventions.

He asked the IRS to issue more specific guidelines on when the expenses of wives on a trip are deductible.

"It is our understanding that at present, expenses incurred by a secretary who is taken along to a convention are normally deductible," he said.

"It is our position that a wife, who has an important role at our conventions and whose continuing interest in the prosperity and success of her husband's enterprise is clear, should be given at least as much consideration as a secretary insofar as the deductibility of her expenses are concerned," Morris added.

Marvin Leffler, president of the National Council of Salesmen's Organizations, said salesmen in his group spend an average of $1,500 a year per man.

To salesmen, he said, travel, entertainment and gifts are as ordinary and necessary as buying stationery and paper clips is to the man who operates an office—"yet no one has attempted to rigidly control his movements even though he might well take home a few clips and a ream or so of paper for his personal use."

The public hearings ended Tuesday, and the IRS said it hoped to

Weems To Rest At Bethesda, Md.

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Orchestra leader Ted Weems, who attempted comeback from serious illness ended on the eve of his first engagement, will be buried Friday at Bethesda, Md.

Weems, who helped such singers as Perry Como and Marilyn Maxwell toward stardom, died Monday night in a Tulsa hospital after a seven-week fight against emphysema, a lung disease. He was 62.

Weems' kind of music, the bouncy "Heartaches" and "The Martins and the Coys," was a big hit in the 1930's and 40's—the heyday for big bands.

Weems, trademark was a whistler, usually Elmo Tanner. Tanner was featured in the 1947 revival of "Heartaches," one of Weems' best hits.

The perpetually smiling bandleader became afflicted with emphysema five years ago. The disease destroys the elasticity of the lungs and makes breathing difficult. Weems carried a mechanical device on tour to aid his breathing.

New U. S. F105 Fighters Assigned To Japan Italians Get Pay Hikes

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. Air Force is introducing into Japan this month the F105 fighter, one of the world's fastest and most versatile tactical aircraft, U.S. Air Force headquarters announced Tuesday.

The first F105s have already replaced the F100 "Super Sabres" at Kadena Air Base, Okinawa, the announcement said. The initial F105s to be assigned to the 5th Air Force in Japan were flown to Okinawa from the United States last year.

ROME (AP)—Millions of Italian workers got automatic pay raises this week. The increases came under union contracts linked to the cost-of-living index, which rose 6-10ths of 1 per cent in March.

54 Integrationists Convicted; Fines Of Penny Each Suspended By Judge

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Fifty-four persons were convicted of disorderly conduct charges Tuesday and fined one penny each. The fine was suspended.

An additional 81 charges ranging from assaulting an officer to inciting a riot were dropped.

The defendants were arrested during demonstrations here March 30, April 6, 13 and 20. All agreed to have their cases heard en masse.

The presiding judge said during the trial that a newspaper article about Cambridge's racial troubles "only told about one-tenth of the situation here."

In remarks to the first defense witness at the trial in Dorchester County Circuit Court, Chief Judge W. Laird Henry said:

"I'm just wondering and I don't understand why Cambridge is being written up like it is in the newspapers and the whole truth is not being told."

"The next time that you have any statement to give to the newspapers, don't tell one-tenth of the truth, tell the whole truth about the situation in Cambridge."

Judge Henry's remarks were directed to Mrs. Gloria Richardson, 41, Negro, of Cambridge, one of the 15 persons arrested last March 30 as they picketed in front of a Cambridge skating rink.

The judge's questioning of Mrs. Richardson from the bench included this exchange:

Q — Do you know that in this county the educational system is integrated?

A — Yes, I know one member on the board.

Q — Didn't you have a child that went into the school last fall?

A — Yes but she was not comfortable in the academic atmosphere there and asked to leave.

Q — Did you know that the churches were integrated every week during the Lenten season, that the services were integrated and held at Waugh Church out in your section?

A — Yes.

Q — Do you think the article which appeared on the editorial page of the Baltimore Sun a few weeks ago was fair?

A — Yes.

Judge Henry also brought out that Mrs. Richardson's grandfather, H. M. Sinclair Sr., was a member of the City Council for 50 years.

Mrs. Richardson is co-chairman of the Nonviolent Action Group of Cambridge, an integrationist organization. Her name did not appear in the Baltimore Sun article of April 22 by Ruth Van D. Todd entitled "A Stalemate in Race Relations."

The article referred to a "cold war of integration" in Cambridge, a fishing town of 12,300 on Maryland's conservative Eastern Shore, and "a color line as tightly drawn as a violin string."

State's Crops In Need Of Rain

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Rainfall with a million-dollar price tag fell on Maryland crops last week but the soil still was short of moisture.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, estimating the value of the rain to farmers at $1 million, said Tuesday that pastures were beginning to respond to the added moisture while the pasture feed supply remains much below normal.

Apple trees bloomed in orchards of Allegany County last weekend and reports indicate a good set of fruit. The period of bloom was earlier in Western Maryland orchards east of the mountains.

The weekly crop-weather report said plowing for corn was about 85 per cent complete last week with more than 10 per cent of the intended corn acreage planted. Alfalfa and clover mixture hay fields were in fair to good condition across the state but they were shorter than usual because of lack of adequate moisture.

In the vegetable areas of the Eastern Shore, planting of cucumbers, cantaloupes, watermelons and sweet corn was about 40 per cent finished. Frost, wind and blowing soil damaged tomato plants in Kent and Worcester counties.

Ex-Legislators' Trial Resumes Next Monday

BALTIMORE (AP) — Resumption of the federal trial of two former congressmen on charges they sold their influence was put off Tuesday until next Monday.

The office of U.S. District Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen announced that one of the two other defendants, William L. Robinson, Miami lawyer, continued ill. The judge originally had recessed the trial Monday until Wednesday after Robinson informed him he could not remain in court because of a high fever.

Robinson is representing himself at the trial which already has lasted 22 days. The others accused of conspiracy are former Congressmen Thomas F. Johnson of Maryland, Frank W. Boykin of Alabama and J. Kenneth Edlin, savings and loan operator from Miami.

The government claims they conspired to persuade the Justice Department to dismiss a 1959 mail fraud indictment against Edlin. He did not contest the charge last year and served five months in prison.

Johnson and Boykin, both Democrats, were defeated for re-election last year. Boykin had served 28 years and Johnson four.

Secrecy Of Juvenile Court Is Affirmed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Judges affirmed Tuesday the secrecy of juvenile court proceedings when newsmen sought to check a report that an elected official was accused in a morals case.

Juvenile Judge Matthew S. Evans issued orders to court personnel that no information was to be made available.

The action was upheld by Judge James E. Boylan Jr., chief of the circuit.

"Juvenile court proceedings are entirely secret and the press is barred," he said even if the charges are against an adult.

Laughing Matter

GODTHAAB, Greenland (AP) — Before Danish settlement of Greenland, the Eskimo population had two ways of settling a grievance—by killing an opponent or besting him in a "drum dance." Opponents in the latter would face each other in front of fellow villagers, each equipped with a small drum. They would then alternate verses, each trying to ridicule the other. The winner was the one who got the biggest laugh from the audience at his enemy's expense.

Maplehurst Club Elects New Officers

FROSTBURG — The newly constituted board of directors of Maplehurst Country Club met recently to organize and elect officers for the coming term.

By unanimous ballot the outgoing officers were returned for the first time in the club's nine-year history.

Named for second terms were Paul S. Moulden, president; Ralph M. Race, vice president; Drucilla Schriener, secretary; B. Wayne Myers, treasurer, and James S. Getty, counsel.

The five, with past president Emory Loar, comprise the executive committee which functions between monthly board meetings.

Myers commented that, with the activity concerning the club's current expansion program and remodeling, the word "monthly" better could be changed to "weekly".

Other board members, in addition to the officers named above, include Ernest Hampton, John C. Davis, F. Leo Dean, Howard Plummer and Thomas Stewart, all holdover directors; Richard Christopher, Charles Miller and Rev. Francis J. Montgomery, who with Miss Schriener and Myers, were re-elected at the recent annual meeting of Maplehurst stockholders; and James Donahue and Victor Wonn, newcomers elected at the same meeting.

Mrs. Gerald H. Groves and Glenwood Reel, president of the Women's and Men's associations, are ex-officio members of the board as well.

Moulden expressed his appreciation for the vote of confidence in his official family and announced that appointment of committee chairmen will be named shortly.

He commented that Getty has been counsel to the Maplehurst board since its organization in 1955, having been active in that endeavor, and Race has been vice president for seven of the nine terms served.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for May 13 at the Fidelity Bank.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Seeing is believing is an old cliché, but if I hadn't seen all the amazing things done by "Monsieur Cognac," the standard-sized poodle, in his acting job at Universal Studios, I wouldn't have believed it. He keeps Tony Curtis and Christine Kaufmann on their toes, and Tony laughingly said, "We know he's going to steal the picture."

I watched Michael Anderson direct a scene in which "Monsieur Cognac" was told to answer the telephone when it rang. He lifted the receiver from the cradle, placed it on the table and barked into it. I thought he did it perfectly in the first take but director Anderson thought it could be improved. Christine remarked that she was glad "Monsieur Cognac" spoiled the take so they wouldn't be blamed.

Tony has started a collection of photographs of "Monsieur Cognac" with stars—he has one with Kirk Douglas and Jack Lemmon—but when he tried to get one with Lassie, sponsor Campbell soup objected. Finally permission was granted with the proviso that the picture not be used for publicity.

Gregory Peck's fling as a race horse owner came to a sad end when his jumper, Owen's Sedge, dropped dead after taking a hurdle in the Whitebread Gold Cup steeplechase. Owen's Sedge became one of the most publicized racers of the English tracks when Greg purchased him and then entered him in the Grand National Sweepstakes. The mere fact of Greg's ownership made poor Owen's Sedge the third favorite with the bettors in that race although he finished out of the money.

The animal cost Greg about $20,000 but was fully covered by insurance. "Even so, it's a pang to lose him," says our newest Oscar winner.

Never let it be said that Zsa Zsa Gabor wasn't at her most Gaborish at La Scala putting on a scene that had all the other diners goggle-eyed.

It all started when the explosive blonde tried to smuggle her tiny poodle into the restaurant under her fur coat. But the eagle eye of owner Jean Leon spotted

Pinto Bridge Still Needed

John C. Foster, manager of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, told the county commissioners yesterday that the need for the new Pinto bridge to provide a modern access route into the facility has not diminished.

Foster met with the commissioners, along with several officials of ABL, to discuss the progress on negotiations the board has had with officials connected with the project.

Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon told the men that progress has been made but some further discussion is necessary before a report can be made.

Foster said that yesterday's newspaper outlining the work which the Navy has ordered is self-explanatory as to the future of the ABL program.

He said that the program which has been underway prior to the unfortunate explosion Saturday, April 27 will be continued on the same basis as prior to the blast.

County Board Hears Drainage Complaints

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday heard four complaints on sewage drainage in the Charlestown section of Lonaconing.

Complaints were signed by Gaylord Brooks, sanitary supervisor for the County Health Department.

Property owners involved are being notified to correct the situation within 30 days or face further action.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♥ 3 ♦ 3 ♥ Pass
4 ♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦

A key defensive play by East in today's hand led to an upset, the size of which was somewhat out of proportion to declarer's bidding sins.

South's persistence to four hearts after his partner's competitive raise was perhaps unwise on such an emaciated trump holding. When West pre-empted bidding space by jumping to three diamonds, North may be under considerable pressure, and South might allow him some leeway for his free bid.

West led the king of diamonds on which his partner contributed the queen. There appeared to be no future in a continuation since the declarer as well as East was now out of the suit. West switched to a club in the hope of obtaining a ruff. East obligingly produced the ace of clubs and returned the deuce for West to trump.

West was in and he led the ace of diamonds. Had East casually taken a discard at this point, declarer would have been able to hold his loss to a mere 100 points by playing the ace and another heart. It appeared to East that declarer might well be out of diamonds, but even if he wasn't it was important for East to get in quickly to give his partner another club ruff.

East, therefore, trumped the ace of diamonds with the jack of hearts. South could not over-ruff so he discarded a club. A club return permitted West to make good another little heart, and a diamond back enabled East to score with the king of hearts. East now applied the final humiliating touch by playing a fourth club. In desperation, South trumped with the nine of hearts, but West over-ruffed with the ten.

In all, the defenders made good every one of their five trumps which along with the two minor suit aces added up to a 400 point sting.

Graceful movements of the hands and arms must come naturally, but they can be learned.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

These Hand And Arm Exercises Teach Grace, And Help You Relax

If you are not as relaxed a person as you should be, it's wise indeed to train your hands and arms to move gracefully. For you, there's double benefit. As you learn the ways of grace, you also learn to relax.

To conscious and too deliberate attempts at grace with the hands and arms almost always look affected. True grace, whether in gesture or in purposeful action, must come naturally. Your hands and arms must be taught to relax and to get the feel of easy movement until smooth motion becomes a habit. Here are four exercises which teach them, and you need only to run through them once to see how they help to induce general relaxation. They're wonderfully restful when you are tired.

Drop your hands into your lap or to your sides after each exercise:

1. Sit erect in an arm chair.

Rest elbows on the chair arms and raise both forearms perpendicularly. Make the tightest fists you can, hold for a count of five, then fling the fingers outward, hard.

2. Raise your arms in front of you, palms down, thumbs pointing toward the chest and fingers extended. Stretch each finger to touch the thumb, one after another. Really stretch, so you feel it.

3. Play imaginary piano scales. Tap a table top with the hand held straight from the waist to the middle knuckle. Raise the fingers high and rhythmically, and lower them with equal emphasis.

4. Extend one arm at a time forward at shoulder level and describe small semicircles with the hand as if scooping water from a brook. With each scoop move the hand farther toward the opposite shoulder until it touches it. Reverse direction until the arm reaches behind you.

Western Md. Rwy. Sued By Widow For $200,000

The widow of a Western Maryland Railway crane operator who was killed when the big "hook" turned over near North Branch on December 13, has sued the railroad for $200,000.

Filing the action as administratrix of the estate of Joseph Arthur Sprecher, 47, was his widow, Mrs. Catherine E. Sprecher, 125 Garinger Road, Hagerstown.

The action to recover damages for his death was filed in U. S. District Court for Maryland in Baltimore Friday.

Sprecher's death came during the cleaning up of a derailment of a number of hoppers in a deep cut just east of North Branch.

The 200-ton crane had been brought just hours before from Hagerstown to work the east side of the wreckage. The "big hook" on the Western Division out of Ridgeley was working on the west end of the jammed up area.

The crane toppled over and pinned Sprecher in it. Death was instantaneous, it was reported.

New Trial Denied In Dental Case

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday filed an opinion in which he denied a motion for a new trial for Allan Porter, who had been convicted by a jury several weeks ago in Circuit Court on charges of four violations of the state dental laws.

Judge Harris also stated that Porter will be brought into court today for sentencing.

Judge Harris ruled that "The defendant's contention that the state deprives him of due process and equal protection under the state and federal constitutions is without merit."

"The finishing of artificial dentures is intimately related to the general health of the patient, and the mechanical work of making dentures is but a small part of the total undertaking which requires biological, physiological and pathological knowledge, and sometimes surgical skill. This relation justifies legislative regulation of dentistry including prosthetic dentistry. The regulation in the instant case is not unreasonable and arbitrary and the statute is not vague and unclear," Judge Harris opined.

Judge Harris cited a number of cases in which the dental laws were upheld by the courts.

Concert Group Is Seeking Members; Leaders Named

Eighteen team captains are faced with the primary responsibility for the success of the fifth annual membership campaign of the Tri-State Community Concert Association.

Mrs. Robert D. Bittle, who was re-elected second vice president-membership chairman of the association at the campaign kickoff dinner Sunday evening, pointed out then that 18 captains and 90 workers have accepted responsibility for getting some 1280 memberships by 1 p. m. Saturday.

"Old or new, we're all volunteers working for the cause of bringing thrilling live music and art to our area," Mrs. Bittle said. "With such a worthy objective let us approach our work dedicated and enthusiastic spirits."

Some 220 persons renewed their memberships by mail after form letters were mailed to them in mid-April. Mrs. Bittle pointed out that there are over 61,000 persons residing in the area covered by the membership drive.

Two headline attractions are assured for the 1963-64 season in the Fort Hill High School auditorium. The first is the opera "Tosca," to be presented by the Goldovsky Grand Opera Company on October 2. The other is the celebrated Boston Pops Orchestra, which will bring quality music with popular appeal to Cumberland next March 31.

Monday Final Day For City Registration

With four days of registration time remaining before the deadline for eligibility to cast a ballot in the fluoridation referendum, City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery said the number of voters listed reached 10,644 yesterday.

Forty-eight have registered since May 1, Ullery said, and 13 have made changes in name or address.

The fluoridation referendum is scheduled Tuesday, May 21 with polls open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. Registration books will close at 5 p. m. Monday, May 13, and those not registered on books located in the office in the basement of City Hall may not vote on the question.

Those registered so far this month compose half the total registered in April when 40 male and 56 female voters were placed on the books.

At the end of April, there were 5,592 male voters and 5,044 female voters registered.

The referendum on the ballot will state that the vote is to prohibit the addition of fluorine, fluorides or their derivatives to the city's water supply.

Those opposing adding fluorine to the water will vote "Yes" and those favoring the addition of fluorine to the water will vote "No."

The Mayor and Council which had voted 4-1 to add fluorine to the water, ordered a referendum after it was petitioned by 20 per cent of the registered voters. The petition drive was spearheaded by the Cumberland Pure Water Committee.

His successor is Lt. John E. Piquitt of Hagerstown and going to Hagerstown as head of the Eastern Division police is Lt. Thomas F. Barron, 507 Patterson Avenue.

Lt. Barron, who has been head of the Western Division police department for the past year, will be succeeded here by Lt. James H. Snyder, Bedford Road.

Lt. Snyder, who was just promoted from patrolman, has been on the railroad's police department ten years. The first nine years were spent as a patrolman on the Western Division working out of Cumberland.

Mineral County Grand Jury Begins Service

Piedmont Woman Is Named Foreman

KEYSER — May term of Mineral County Circuit Court opened yesterday with Judge David E. Cuppett, Jr., charging the grand jury and reiterating his stand on a juvenile detention home.

Mrs. P. E. Berry, wife of a Piedmont physician, was named jury foreman. The panel consists of eight men and eight women.

Judge Cuppett told jurors that they had a job of the "utmost importance", and added that they were "the arm of the court" that investigates what has been going on in the county and what offenses have been committed.

He said their task is not to determine whether a person is guilty or not guilty, but to decide whether there is probable cause that a person did commit a particular offense.

The petit jury, he said, will later decide the degree of the crime.

Judge Cuppett spoke at length about several juvenile matters which will be heard concerning a number of contributing charges, several breaking and enterings, operation of a motor vehicle under the influence of alcoholic beverages, three forgeries, a charge of incest and a charge of malicious assault on two West Virginia State policemen.

After delivering his instructions to the jury, the judge again pointed out the need for a juvenile detention home in the county and suggested that the jurors, before completing their day's work, visit the Mineral County jail to inspect quarters presently used for juvenile detention.

Judge Cuppett said in addition to the home, there is also a need for more detailed effort in juvenile cases and he suggested the hiring of a full-time officer for both juveniles and adults. Other counties under his jurisdiction (Grant and Tucker counties) could also help, he said.

He asserted that money for the building and new officer is available and pointed to "$35,000 plus available in the county" with the possibility of also securing federal and state matching funds.

The revised jury list contains the names of the following jurors, in addition to Mrs. Berry:

Richard Carr, Mabel Eagle, Gladys Eagle, Melvin Davis, Marlin Biggs, New Creek district; Henry Abernathy, Beulah Alderton, Elk district; Chester Henry Rhodes, James William Carskadon, Cabin Run district; Ralph Alt, Vivian L. Berg, Walton district; Beatrice Davis, Harry Calan, Bessie Imes, Frankfort district, and Catherine J. Allen, Piedmont district.

Paw Paw High Graduation Is Set On May 28

PAW PAW — Joseph C. Gluck, director of student affairs at West Virginia University, will be the speaker at the 58th graduation exercises at Paw Paw High School at 8 p. m. Tuesday, May 28. His topic will be "A Choice of Roads."

Branch Bank To Open At Accident

OAKLAND — Plans for a new branch banking facility at Accident have been announced by Garrett National Bank here.

A site for the new operation has been secured from Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ault, adjacent to the Accident Post Office.

The interior of the building is to be more or less a replica of the Oakland bank and the exterior of native stone and glass. Features will include a drive-under roof which will allow patrons to park and bank out of the weather, and air conditioning.

In selecting Accident as a site for the new banking operation, officers of Garrett National said they felt they would be serving the needs of one of the richest agricultural areas of the county, and that the new branch would stimulate additional business development for that community.

A bank spokesman said a study showed that deposits from this area had increased over 100 per cent in the two-year period just ended. The branch office will open in June.

Public Housing Protest Lodged In Frostburg

Residents Oppose West End Project

FROSTBURG — Objections were received at this week's City Council meeting to the erection of a housing development in the west end of the city.

A large group of residents of that area with Thomas Natolly as spokesman asked if a housing unit was to be built on West Main Street. William Sluss, executive director of the local unit, explained that several options had been taken on properties in that area but that nothing definite has been done yet. Natolly then presented a petition from the residents objecting to the erection of any such units in Frostburg stating that they were a disgrace to the city and the county and that they paid no taxes.

Miss Ethel Wilderman, director of the county welfare department, was present to explain the welfare program whereby the city would hire unemployed persons to the extent of the amount of welfare they are granted. Council tabled the proposition subject to further investigation and the submission of necessary forms to be executed.

David R. Heacock of Frostburg State Teachers College asked permission to circulate a pamphlet regarding foreign exchange students and asking citizens to donate a scholarship fund so that a student may be brought to FSTC. Permission to circulate the pamphlets was given.

George F. Martens, maintenance foreman at FSTC requested an abatement for certain water bills caused by a faulty water meter which has since been repaired. Certain tests and further investigation will be made by the city before any action is taken.

The city attorney was authorized to proceed with legal matters concerning transfer of properties necessary for the opening of Hill Street through to Grant Street.

Commissioner Herbert Loar reported on work being done at the swimming pool prior to its opening for the summer. Boys hired

Piedmont Election Is May 13

PIEDMONT — Three more candidates have filed for positions as town councilmen, with one filing his petition only moments before the deadline.

They are Eugene Spiker, William P. Hood and Frank T. Fike. Their petitions request their names be placed on the official ballot as independent candidates for the municipal election on Monday, May 13.

Spiker was the candidate who beat the deadline by moments. A resident of 230 West Fairview Street, Spiker is a former town magistrate and also worked as an extra police officer.

A veteran of six years in the Marine Corps, he is a brother of Chief of Police Charles Spiker.

Hood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hood, Jones Street. He is a graduate of Piedmont High School and was center on the school's basketball team. Later he attended Catherman's Business school, Cumberland.

A veteran of World War II, he served with the Engineers in Italy. Upon his return from that conflict he secured employment at the Herald Printing House and learned to be a linotype operator. During his years with the Herald he has acquired a working knowledge of its various machines and is now superintendent of the mechanical department. Since the illness of the editor, he has taken over the duties of staff photographer.

A member of the Tri-Towns Fire Company, he is a past president of that organization. He is also a past commander of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion.

Fike is a son of S. K. Fike and the late Mrs. Fike of East Hampshire Street. He also is a graduate of Piedmont high school and is employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

A veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict, he was with the Marines, and is a member of Kelly-Mansfield Post. He is a member of the Church of the Brethren, and has been secretary of the Westvaco Bowling League ten years.

A mayor and three councilmen will be chosen at the coming election. A mayor will be elected for two years, the two highest councilmen for four years, and the third highest councilman for two years.

Besides the two independent candidates who filed by petition, there are two complete tickets in the field. Mayor Donald Mellor is a candidate to succeed himself. His ticket, the People's ticket, includes Mrs. Anna Stevenson, Harry McCulloh and Leslie Albright as candidates for council. The ticket was announced last month and was filed by petition.

The Citizens' ticket, nominated at the city primary, has John Dennison, a holdover councilman, as candidate for mayor, Sebastian Barabito, a retiring member of the council, Carl Liller, and Raymond Lee as candidates for council.

A program of musical numbers was presented by the Beall High Ensemble under the direction of Miss Mary Robb, music teacher. Numbers sung by the group were, "Deep River," "I'll Take Romance," "Moon River," and "Say It With Music." Members of the Ensemble are Connie Carter, Trudy Smouse, Janice Huff, Emily Hill, Roberta Rizer, Anna Lee Stott, Pat Baker, William Aldridge, John Crowe, Dennis Lennox, John Frazee, Darrell Layman and Gary Durr. ## West Virginia Welfare Probe Gets Approval

By DONALD F. FANNIN
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Legislature, moving swiftly after its between-sessions committee agreed to conduct a study of the State Welfare Department, gave final approval Tuesday to a $457,000 supplemental appropriation for two welfare programs and adjourned "sine die."

The Senate adjourned finally at 2:58 p.m. and the House at 3 p.m.

The House passed the Senate-approved bill without much debate but the Senate vote was sparked by accusations against the department and Commissioner W. Bernard Smith.

The Republican minority, which had blocked speedy action on the bill Monday by refusing to suspend the constitutional rule that requires a bill be read on three separate days, went along with the Democratic majority Tuesday after the study was approved by the Joint Committee on Government and Finance.

The study was referred to the committee after legislative leaders felt the Legislature could not approve such a study recommended by Gov. W. W. Barron — because it was not in the governor's call.

Republicans went along with the committee action but Senate Minority Leader John E. Carrigan, R-Marshall, insisted that State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson be asked for an opinion on whether legislative immunity from law suit would be extended to interim committee investigators since the resolution did not emanate from the Legislature.

Republicans had blocked speedy action on the money bill to continue the aid-to-dependent-children (ACD) and work-and-training (WTP) programs at current levels through this fiscal year, pending action on a study resolution that would include subpoenas powers for investigators.

The study approved by the interim committee does not spell out such powers but House Speaker Julius W. Singleton of Morgantown and House Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton of Charleston maintain that current law provides such legislative groups with the authority to force witnesses to testify.

Carrigan and two other Republicans voted against the measure passed 24-3 in the Senate. Sen. W. N. Jasper Jr., D-Greenbrier, was absent and four others paired their votes.

The House vote was 96-1 with Del. Harry L. Buch, R-Ohio, voting "no."

Sen. J. Kenton Lambert, R-Tucker, who joined with Carrigan and Sen. Chester Hubbard, R-Ohio, in voting against the money bill, said in the explanation of his vote that he had "before me

Lambert also said he knew of "at least three men who quit their regular jobs to get on ADCU."

Bedford Road Sanitary Area Hearing Is Set

Will Be Held
On Monday, May 27

A public hearing has been scheduled by the Allegany County Sanitary Commission at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 27, on a petition of 25 Bedford Road area property owners who seek the creation of a sanitary district to provide water and sewage system for that area.

The area involved in the proposed sanitary district would extend all the way from the Bedford Road city limits of Cumberland to the Mason-Dixon Line along U.S. Route 220.

This proposed sanitary district would encompass about four square miles.

The hearing will be held in the county commissioners' meeting room on the second floor of the Allegany County Court House.

This will mark the third such hearing for the three-man commission which includes Playford S. Aldridge, chairman; Robert A. Reinhard, secretary, and Alvin H. Rankin, member.

Twice last year the sanitary commission met and voted to create sanitary districts in areas south of the city limits along McMullen Highway. The first such district embraces Roberts Place, Bowling Green and Potomac Park. The second would serve Cresaptown.

The feasibility report and plans of the proposed sewerage facilities may be inspected at the sanitary commission's office in the Court House basement on Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Oldtown PTA Will Install Officers

Oldtown Parent-Teacher Association will install officers Thursday at 8 p.m. Installed will be Mrs. Bernard Lewis, president; Albert Kinser, vice president; Mrs. Chester Carder, secretary, and Mrs. Gilbert Zimmerman, treasurer.

Road To Airport Is Light Surfaced

The road to the Cumberland Municipal Airport has been resurfaced in preparation for this weekend's Sports Car Races.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, said the road was treated with tar and chips with the use of Street Department crews and equipment.

The department will donate its power sweeper Friday, Saturday and Sunday for use at the races. It will be used by city operators, paid by the Lions Foundation.

The complete facilities of the department, Mrs. Roeder said, will be available during the event.

Duke Bible Class To Honor Mothers

Members are being asked to bring their wives. The public is invited.

Borrowing Answers College Problem

No taxpayer needs to be reminded that the fastest growing segment of public responsibility is the nation's education system. No one argues with the thesis that education is the best investment the country can make today, although a growing army of taxpayers is demanding that the quality of output have a more direct relationship to the quantity of input.

Parents of college students find the penalties of inflation particularly severe on their pocketbooks. The father who took out a $5,000 insurance policy 10 years ago to finance his child's education finds himself far short of the total cost today. The parent who procrastinated on a systematic savings plan for college will be even more shocked if he expects to carry the load on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The obvious answer to the rising cost of a college sheepskin is one parents have been reluctant to accept until recently. That is, the approach most persons apply to a home, a business, or other major capital investment: finance it.

Now, it appears the barrier has been broken. Americans will borrow nearly $500 million during the current academic year for college expenses, compared to $115 million five years ago. A new plan to issue installment programs directly to the parents instead of through the colleges as heretofore has been started by a New Hampshire firm. The response to the plan, which offers far wider distribution potential, has been favorable enough to predict its development in other areas.

Recent studies by the Labor Department have shown the dependency of college students upon their parents for the full amount of their college financing has grown considerably in the last decade. A part time job during the school term or summer work to help out apparently appeals to fewer students each year.

College on the installment plan may result in more high school graduates reaching the higher levels of education, but the burden on mom and dad is not reduced. If education is the goal, a little summer perspiration to go along with winter studies still seems to be a good combination.

These Days

Limits Of Credibility

Certain pundits, speculating upon the leftward drift in the recent Italian election, are now predicting a wide comeback for European leftist parties in general. They are accepting the probable emergence of Ludwig Erhard, an anti-collectivist, as the next Chancellor of West Germany, but they are nonetheless convincing themselves that Erhard will shortly be succeeded by Willy Brandt, the Socialist Mayor of West Berlin. And they are certain that Harold Wilson, demagogic leader of the British Labor Party, will defeat conservative Harold Macmillan in the next English election.

Since strains evoke counter-strains, it is not at all certain that a clear victory for European socialism is anywhere near in sight. Both Erhard and Macmillan may prove more durable than anyone now supposes. But the forces of those who are opposed to the socialist drift are obviously in for some ticklish days. The leftward lean of European politics will encourage the spiritual cousins of Willy Brandt and Harold Wilson on this side of the ocean, and the "Right"—meaning those who are for the traditional free pattern of American economic life—will have to remain poised on its toes.

To remain effective, the American Right must be particularly careful not to exceed the limits of credibility in the charges it makes when it moves into battle. In the nineteen thirties in New York City, when the Communists were cultivating the so-called "fellow travellers" among the liberals, they used to hold long discussions about the limits of credibility. It was generally agreed among the Communists that the "big lie" didn't matter. Thus they did not boggle over the idiom of saying that "Communism is Twentieth Century Americanism." This sort of claim may have been a libel on the United States in general, but it libelled no one in particular.

When it came to libelling individuals, however, the Communists were careful. They did not say that socialist Norman Thomas was a "fascist"; careful of the limits of credibility, they merely said that Thomas' "position" made him "objectively a social fascist." This sort of careful limitation made the Communist position seem sociologically "scientific."

Senator Joe McCarthy, when he came along to do battle with the Left, was singularly oblivious to questions of credibility. At one time he requested a memorandum from Freda Utey, a one-time Communist sympathizer, on the career of Owen Lattimore. Mrs. Utey carefully prepared a document in which she placed Lattimore's own changes of line in one column and Stalin's changes in another. There were some striking parallels, but Mrs. Utey was careful not to make any allegations reflecting on Lattimore's patriotism. She let the facts speak for themselves.

Well, when McCarthy came to make political use of Mrs. Utey's memorandum, he ignored its scientific exactitude. And, in so doing, he exceeded the limits of credibility and thus helped destroy much of its effectiveness as an enemy of Communism.

Just at the moment, Senator Thomas H. Kuchel of California, a "liberal" Republican, is charging "self-styled" patriotic groups with "terrifying" thousands of Americans with "hoaxes and lies." He particularly attacks the John Birch Society for spreading the libel that John Foster Dulles was a "Communist agent." And the head of the Birch Society, Robert Welch, has been accused of writing worse things about Dulles's boss.

Since I have never seen any Birchite documents alleging that the White House in Eisenhower's time was an open annex of the Kremlin, I can't vouch for the accuracy of Senator Kuchel's own charges. But whether Kuchel is careful of his own evidence or not, this question of the limits of credibility is important. To be effective in politics, anti-leftists should stick to the record.

Taking a tip from the Communists' own tactics, it should be enough for them to say that "so-and-so's position on such-and-such gives aid to Khrushchev." There is no need to say that "so-and-so is a conscious agent of the Kremlin" unless, like the late Whitaker Chambers, they have some incriminating papers hidden in a pumpkin back home.

'Only One Way To Go - Up'

Will Chiang Return To Mainland This Year?

WASHINGTON.

The "return to the mainland," so long and so often proclaimed, may really be attempted this year by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

There is considerable danger that this explosive possibility will be pooh-poohed, until the attempt is actually under way. The Generalissimo and his government have been talking about re-inventing the mainland ever since 1949. By now, the talk tends to go unheeded, like the cries of "Wolf! Wolf!" of the little boy in the story.

But in the first place, some fast-talking American persuasion was needed to avert at least one earlier attempt. And in the second place, the indications from Formosa this spring differ quite sharply from any in the past.

There are no boastful, empty proclamations now. Instead there are serious preparations. For example, besides building landing craft in the Taipei shipyards—which the U. S. government knew about—the Nationalists have also been having landing craft quietly built in Japan—which the U. S. government did not learn about until recently.

Then, too, the Nationalist armed forces have been training hard for amphibious operations, ironically enough with American advice; for help in this special training was part of the bargain, when the Generalissimo agreed to give up his earlier plan for re-inventing the mainland.

Finally, the tone and tempo of the Nationalist leadership are the most serious indicators of all.

The Generalissimo's advisors who were formerly on the side of caution, and above all against getting too far out of step with the U. S., are now strongly in favor of making the re-invasion attempt this year.

Thus those who tipped the scales on the side of prudence, like the able Vice-President, Chen Chang, and the veteran War Minister, Yu Ta-wei, are now casting their weight on the other side of the balance. As for the Generalissimo himself, he is past 70; he is determined to make his attempt to return to the mainland while he still has time; and he considers the time is ripe in 1963.

There is, in fact, no doubt at all that Chiang Kai-shek and his government at present intend to make the landing attempt early this summer, or perhaps in the next favorable season, in the autumn. Initially, they cannot put on shore much more than a division. Their air force, which comprises only about 300 planes, is outnumbered more than 10-to-1 by the Communists.

By Joseph Alsop

But they remember that their pilots scored better than 30-to-1 against the Communist pilots in the Quemoy crisis in 1958. They count, quite possibly with reason, on scoring as well now. And they also believe that there is enough disaffection in the Communist army, and more than enough disaffection in the Chinese countryside, to insure a landing on a relatively small scale acting like a lit match in a dry haystack.

The question therefore is not whether Chiang Kai-shek seriously intends to attempt his landing in 1963. The truth is that 1963 is already being rather openly described in high government circles in Taipei as "The Year of the Return."

Instead, the question is whether

Recent new wires services carrying Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's predictions of up-coming race riots in Washington, D.C., and reported over area radio stations need to be carefully scrutinized.

It is the frank belief of this critic that Rep. Powell's remarks are irresponsible, inflammatory and ignorant.

Poisonous Stinkweed Common In Most Areas

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Two children were poisoned after eating the seeds of the Jimson weed. One was a boy of 3 who became markedly confused and disoriented. He came into the house reeling like a drunk and then had convulsions. His sister, aged 6, exhibited the same symptoms except for convulsions.

There is no specific remedy for this condition, which resembles belladonna poisoning. This means prevention is imperative and we wonder why so common a plant is not eradicated completely. Jimson weed, an annual, grows in most parts of the United States. It is dubbed stinkweed or thorn apple and has been a problem for decades.

The poisoning is called milk sickness because many people encounter symptoms after drinking milk that comes from sick cows. The animal eats the Jimson weed and develops the trembles. Some of the poison gets into the milk and anyone who drinks this liquid is likely to become ill.

In the past, farmers often peddled their own milk and left a trail of milk sickness along the route. Many of the cases were fatal. Nancy Hanks Lincoln was the most celebrated; she died of milk sickness when Abe was a small boy. The disease is not common today because most of us buy from large dairies. The milk is poured into vats and any that might be contaminated is so diluted as to be safe.

Learn to recognize this plant and destroy it immediately. It is found not only in pastures but in back yards, playgrounds, and public parks. Little children will eat anything in sight and weed poisoning must be considered whenever a youngster develops a sudden baffling illness. There are more than 50 varieties of weeds and other plants in the United States that are risky or poisonous when squeezed or swallowed.

TOMORROW: Chemical agents for leukemia.

MOON LIFE

J. A. Z. writes: Do you think that when the astronauts reach the moon and return to earth, they will bring new types of germs back with them?

REPLY

Your guess is as good as mine. We are told no one lives on the moon and this might include all germs. On the other hand, we might find an advanced civilization and our astronauts may return with medicines that control all diseases.

ARTERY HARDENING

V. P. writes: Does arteriosclerosis start in one artery or various arteries?

REPLY

It has to start somewhere and we can assume that a small patch forms along the lining of one blood vessel. Arteriosclerosis may be limited to one passage-way and when the disease is generalized, one artery is worse than others.

URINARY TRACT

F. L. writes: Does pus in the urine mean kidney or bladder disease?

REPLY

Pus means that inflammation exists somewhere along the urinary tract. It is likely to be in the kidneys if pain is noted in the back; the bladder or urethra when associated with burning or frequency of urination. Different tests can be done to pinpoint the source.

Jacqueline Kennedy Wins Friends Everywhere Except On Capitol Hill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Jacqueline Kennedy has done a great job for the USA in winning friends, all the way from Venezuela to Vienna. But on Capitol Hill where her husband has to win votes, the wives of congressmen say she's a bust.

They say she has snubbed and snooted them. Anything as corny as Kansas on the 4th of July, they say, is just too American for Jackie.

Every year the wives of congressmen give a big annual breakfast for the First Lady and go to a lot of trouble to make it a bang-up success. This year Jackie bowed out, which is why they're especially burned up. But last year they were irked too. They had invested $150 in a bottle of very fancy French perfume. Jackie said thank you and then sat down.

"Wouldn't you have thought she'd have had enough courtesy to say just a few words to all of us who were so thrilled to have her and had tried so hard to please," exclaimed one congressional wife.

This year the wives are really boiling over. Jackie's excuse for declining their annual breakfast was her expectant condition. However, the ladies of Capitol Hill point out that she had attended all the fol de rol for the Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg the night before, and that she had let the congressional wives go ahead with their breakfast plans for many weeks, though obviously knowing she was pregnant. Finally the wives note that on the very same day that Jackie snubbed their breakfast, she turned up in New York to attend the Metropolitan Opera, a trip which is a lot more vigorous than merely going a few blocks to a twelve noon breakfast in Washington.

The President, perhaps sensing the ire of the snubbed ladies, graciously substituted for his wife and did a bang-up job. But even this didn't quiet the ire of the ladies who rule the roost on Capitol Hill.

Avalanche Of Drug Paper

Some of the big drug companies are reported about to snow under the Food and Drug Administration with such an avalanche of paper that it won't be able to properly check on the dangerous qualities of new drugs.

The avalanche of paper would begin descending on the Food and Drug Administration between now and June 8.

Behind this strategy is the fact that the new Kefauver Drug Act requires drug companies to advise food and drug of all experiments being made on human beings before June 8. A new bureau of food and drug has been set up to handle his work under Dr. Frances Kelsey, the doctor who banned thalidomide, the baby-forming drug which caused such damage in Europe.

Some drug companies therefore, plan to comply with the law by sending such multitudinous paperwork to Washington that it will take months to go through it. Plans detailing some 2,500 experiments will be filed in triplicate. Not all of the big companies plan to follow this strategy, but food and drug officials estimate that if even half of them do FDA offices will be deluged with truckloads of papers, which if stacked on top of each other, would be higher than the Washington Monument.

Meanwhile Dr. Kelsey, who has to pass on these applications, occupies an office in a bleak temporary war building. Her sole assistants are two borrowed chemists and a doctor from another division.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

MIAMI, Florida — News about newspapers is usually incestuous and bad. Strikes in New York and Cleveland cost winners and losers about $250,000,000. This depresses newsmen everywhere. Businessmen too. Last Sunday, I covered a happy assignment about newspapers. It gave me a lift to learn that The Miami Herald has just spent $250,000,000 for a new home.

It is, I hope, a trend. I know it represents faith in tomorrow. The building sits on the edge of Biscayne Bay like a six-story hive for 14 karat bees. Big rolls of newspaper come down Government Cut on freighters and are loaded onto barges to land beside the plant. From that point on, everything in the building is a marvel of efficiency.

I went through it with George Beebe, managing editor. It was designed by an old architect named Sigmund Naess, who undertakes each new job murmuring: "This is my last one." He deserves as much credit for the building as the brothers John and James Knight, who paid for it and publish the paper.

The ground floor is a parking lot. If the hurricane of 1926 ever comes back, it will not damage presses, which are normally placed at ground level. The waves will wash through the concrete stilts under the edifice. Underneath them are 3,246 pilings, driven down into solid coral at depths ranging from 45 feet to 106.

The Herald averages around 370,000 in daily circulation, and counts on doing better, so the space, about eight more than they need. The broad floors glisten in pastel colors, desks are in yellows and greens and, on some floors, there are big open spaces.

The whole thing is landscaped with palm trees and smooth drive-ways but, in reality, the one long building is two. The pressroom section on the north end has an air space between it and the rest of the structure so that vibration cannot be transmitted. The presses are white Goss and, to the casual analyzer, everything is in reverse.

The rolls of newsprint are on the second floor and they unroll uphill to the third. There they are fed at whizzing speed into presses which spew each section of the paper further upstairs until, at the top, they are fed into a circular editorial roulette table which puts the section together in proper order.

From there, they race down a stainless steel spiral chute by gravity and in bundles of 20. On the ground floor, a truck backs up and the driver pushes a series of buttons which transmit his number to a glass control tower. The

Even if the entire Bureau of Medicine dropped its work in order to help her, Dr. Kelsey estimates that it would take them forty working days just to make a cursory inspection of the papers. "Suppose there is another thalidomide in that bunch of papers," she was asked.

"It's too frightening to think about," she replied.

Note — FDA Commissioner George Larrick told Congress last month that he has 40 new medical officers and 20 supporting personnel coming into his agency but no place to put them. Office space is at a premium, and Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex., won't permit the General Services Administration to sign contracts to rent new office space in advance of construction.

Stray Germs?

The Maryland Public Health Service will investigate the remote possibility that a mild but mysterious epidemic may have originated in the bacteriological labs of Ft. Dietrich, Md., the Army's research center for germ warfare.

Dr. Gregory Dimijin told this column he will question Ft. Dietrich authorities about the sickness, which has spread across Maryland during the past two months.

He acknowledged that his doctors have been unable to isolate the virus, that there is a 10 per cent possibility the baffling, flu-like disease could be caused by "a low-grade poison." He pointed out further that most of the cases have been reported on Maryland's Eastern Shore, far from Ft. Dietrich.

A Ft. Dietrich spokesman also assured this column that its labs have the best safety record in the world.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Bo Johnson was not only the best hunter but the most resourceful alibi artist in Minnesota. One day Bo and his bosom companion, Don Cooper, set out on a deer hunt. They separated in the woods, and soon thereafter Cooper heard a shot. "Bo's got him a deer already," he marveled, and rejoined his friend. Bo was reloading but there was no deer in sight. He did, however, observe that an obviously frightened calf was departing the scene.

"Holy markere!" chorled Cooper. "You didn't shoot at that calf did you?" "Yep," admitted Johnson. "I took it for a deer." "And you missed it, at that," exulted Cooper. "Some hunter: 'Some hunter: mistaking a calf for a deer—then missing it!'"

"Don't be silly," snapped Johnson, the alibi king. "I shot at it to hit it if it was a deer, and miss it if it was a calf!"

A few of Benjamin Franklin's maxims:

Kings and bears often worry their keepers. He's a fool that makes his doctor his heir. To lengthen thy life, lessen thy meals. Beware of meat twice boiled, and an old foe reconciled. The heart of a fool is in his mouth, but the mouth of a wise man is in his heart.

Hansgen, Penske Vie In Sunday Sports Car Race

New Jerseyite To Seek Sixth Triumph Here

Thompson Entered In Vandegrift Test, Two Races Friday

Walter Hansgen, of Westfield, N. J., a five-times winner, and Roger Penske, of Gladwyne, Pa., the 1962 victor, are among the entries in the Edgar D. Vandegrift Memorial, feature race in the eleventh annual Cumberland National Championship Sports Car Classic, scheduled for Sunday at 4:40 p. m., at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, it was announced last evening by William R. Carscaden, co-chairman, for the Cumberland Lions Club.

Hansgen, who did not compete here the past two years, won the top event in 1953, 1956, 1958, 1959 and 1960 and finished second to Carroll Shelby, of Dallas, Texas, in 1957. Penske edged Hap Sharp, of Midland, Texas in the 1962 feature.

Thompson To Compete

Carscaden also announced that Dick Thompson, of Washington, D. C., and Bob Holbert, of Warrington, Pa., will compete with Penske and Hansgen, thus assuring one of the best races ever arranged for the 1.6 mile course.

"These four represent the cream of the crop in sports car racing today and I'm certain the fans will see a thrilling race," Carscaden stated. "In fact, Penske is considered the hottest thing on four wheels at the present time."

There will be nine races on Sunday's program for foreign and domestic cars in the various displacement classes, commencing at 9 a. m. Four of the contests will be staged in the morning and five in the afternoon starting at 1 o'clock. All of the events are 45-minute tests.

The Vandegrift Memorial for modified cars in classes F, E, D and C is the final on the card.

Drivers from approximately half of the fifty states, as well as the District of Columbia will make up the entry list of about 100.

Two Races Friday

Two races for regional license holders on Friday will mark the opening of the show. The temporary license holders and novice competitors will be offered a chance to display their swift racing machines from 3:45 to 5:45 p. m.

Friday has been set aside for registration, inspection and the two regional races. Senior drivers will register and practice on Saturday.

For the eleventh consecutive year the program will be sponsored by the Lions Foundation of Cumberland and Steel Cities Region, Sports Car Club of America. The Lions Club handles administrative duties while the technical chores will be handled by Steel Cities.

Carscaden and Winfield H. Adam are general co-chairmen for the Lions Club while their counterpart for Steel Cities is Ronald E. "Red" McCurdy, of McKeesport.

Jackson Hurls Mets To 3-1 Win Over Phils

NEW YORK (UPI)—Al Jackson's gritty 11-hit pitching and homers by Charley Neal and Frank Thomas Tuesday night carried the New York Mets to a 3-1 victory over the Philadelphia Jack son was tagged for three doubles and a triple and the Phillies had runners in scoring position in five of the first eight innings but the slim left-hander did not lose his shutout until Bobby Wine led off the ninth with his first homer of the season.

The Mets scored all their runs in the first inning to send fast-baller Art Mahaffey down to his fourth loss against two wins. Neal led off the first inning with a line drive that skipped past right-fielder Jim Lemon for an inside-the-park home run. Ed Kranepool singled and Thomas' third homer of the season added the other runs.

Jackson did not walk a batter and struck out seven in winning his third game against two defeats.

Mossi Stops Yankees, 6-2

Rookie Raps HR, Triple And Double

DETROIT (UPI)—Rookie catcher Bill Freehan blasted a home run, triple and double Tuesday night to back up Don Mossi's pitching and led the Detroit Tigers to a 6-2 triumph over the New York Yankees.

Freehan, the $100,000 bonus baby who reached base on 12 of his last 13 trips to the plate, enjoyed a perfect night to raise his batting average to .500 in 12 games.

He picked up three of Detroit's nine hits, scored three of the runs, and knocked in two of them.

Mossi beat the Yankees for the second time this year. The Yankees threatened in the ninth when they scored two runs.

Freehan tripled and scored Detroit's first run on Dick McAuliffe's single. He also blasted a two-run homer off starter and loser Bill Stafford in the fourth inning.

Raygor Fans 11 In Corgs' 2-0 Victory

Barrelville Downs Kennell's Mill, 9-3

Art Raygor fired a three-hitter and struck out eleven yesterday in twirling the Corriganville Old Germans to a 2-0 triumph over Hyndman's defending champions as the County Softball League season got under way.

In other openers, Barrelville downed Kennell's Mill, 9-3, and Stringtown spoiled the debut of National Jet by routing the latter, 2-5, in a game that was limited to five innings on account of darkness.

Corriganville scored its two runs in the fifth inning on two-base belts by Art Raygor, Don Rose and Dick Niner. Bill Duckworth and Jack Lowery obtained the winning team's other hits. Charles Giffner larruped a triple and Clayton and Knippenberg had singles for Hyndman.

Joe Glass hammered a pair of triples, a double and single for a perfect day at the plate and batted in five runs in the Barrelville victory. Ronnie Neubiser and Fay Often had a double each. Bill Bryant's two-base shot was among the Millmen's three hits yielded by Bill Kenney.

Stringtown scored ten runs in the second inning in running roughshod over National Jet at Narrows Park. Ken Connors held the Jets to five hits while his mates amassed a total of 15. Steve Faulkner and "Corky" Jamison had three safeties each and Jim Cook blasted a homer and single. Connors whiffed six.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Mary A. Rizer, who passed away one year ago, May 8, 1962. More and more each day we miss her. Friends may think the wound is healed; But they little know what sorrow Lies within our hearts concealed. Sadly missed by her daughters, Mrs. Genevieve Cason, and Mrs. Margaret McKenzie.

Bill To Expand Sanitary Unit Has Close Shave

Tawes Scraps Veto Message And Signs

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The mayor of Cumberland and state senator from Allegany County made a flying trip to Annapolis Tuesday, just in the nick of time to prevent Gov. Tawes' veto of a local bill.

The governor, after conferring with Mayor Earl D. Chaney and Sen. George R. Hughes Jr., decided to sign the bill permitting Allegany County to expand its sanitary commission from three to seven members.

They told Tawes that plans for an overall city-county sanitary system would fall through without the measure.

The governor already had announced he was vetoing the bill, on the grounds that it didn't conform with other sanitary commissions limited to three members. He had his veto message torn up and signed the bill.

The Allegany County bill bobbed around for two days. It was on a list of bills which Tawes planned to sign Monday but was pulled back at the last minute.

Mayor Chaney didn't learn the bill was to be vetoed until 11:40 a. m. Tuesday, when he was talking to a Cumberland newspaper reporter. He immediately called Sen. Hughes, the sponsor.

"We started calling everybody," Mayor Chaney said. "I called George Hughes. We got in touch with the chamber of commerce, Tom Finan (Maryland attorney General and resident of Cumberland), John McMullen (member of the state roads commission from Cumberland) and Lloyd Simpkins, the secretary of state."

They requested that the governor not veto the bill and got a plane to fly to Annapolis. They made the trip in an hour, arriving at 2:15 p. m.

"There was no grass growing under anybody's feet," Mayor Chaney observed.

Hughes said expansion of the sanitary commission was necessary to permit representation and acquire cooperation from other areas of the county which would be joining in the city-county sanitary system.

The bill was requested by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and introduced by Senator Hughes.

It provides that the present members, Playford S. Aldridge, chairman, and Alvin H. Rankin and Robert A. Reinhard, will automatically become members of the new seven-member commission.

Welfare Board Refund Request Ruled Invalid

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey of Allegany County Circuit Court has ruled the Allegany County Welfare Board cannot recover funds from a man who was granted a $15,000 settlement in a damage suit while he was receiving disability payments from the welfare board.

The Welfare Board sought to recover $2,174.50 from William Frank May, 61, of RFD 2, Cumberland, which was paid from September 1960 until November 1961.

In an opinion filed by Judge Cobey, he said funds can be recovered only if there is specific statutory authorization and in this incident there was not. He added that money can be recovered which had been paid under the Old Age Assistance Program, but May received his funds from the Welfare Board under General Public Assistance and Aid to Permanently and Totally Disabled Persons.

Judge Cobey said the question in this case is a matter for the legislature.

May was injured in 1960 while working for Feldstein Iron and Metal Company. Shortly afterwards he began to receive $93.50 a month because he was unable to work.

On August 2, 1962 May received a $15,000 judgment against Robert Warnick and Feldstein Iron and Metal Company, and after lawyers' fees and expenses were taken care of he had approximately $10,500.

Former County Attorney Leslie J. Clark represented the Welfare Board and May was represented by Lee C. and Paul W. Barnett, local attorneys.

Tawes Vetoes Liquor Price Control Bill

37 Proposals Are Blackballed

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes vetoed Tuesday 37 bills from the 1963 Maryland Legislature, including one to fix minimum retail prices on liquor.

"The state cannot promote the interest of the small liquor dealer at the expense of the vast majority of citizens," he said in a strongly worded message accompanying his veto of the price fixing bill.

"... This bill is not consistent with the economic system that has prevailed in the United States for centuries. For the state to disregard the laws of supply and demand, for the state to superimpose its will upon the operations of a free market would establish a precedent that harbors serious consequences."

Pensions Killed

"This year we discuss minimum prices for liquor. Will it be bread next year? Will it be milk the following year?"

Small liquor dealers had sought the bill as a curb on operations of big cut-rate stores which buy in large volume and undersell them. Wholesalers and manufacturers would have been required to file minimum prices on brands which the state comptroller would enforce.

He also vetoed bills providing for former governors' pension legislation, raising by 50 per cent the amount of liability insurance motorists must carry, prohibiting a Maryland-licensed race track from conducting similar operations in a nearby state, placing capital improvements on a partial pay-as-you-go basis, requiring the state auditor to report on use of state automobiles, and increasing St. Marys County's take from its slot machines.

Prepares Message

He also vetoed a bill which would have allowed chiropractors, as well as medical doctors and dentists, to take part in the state's medical care program for the poor. But his veto message setting forth reasons for the rejection was not ready for release Tuesday.

The governor cited an attorney general's opinion for his veto of the bill aimed at dual ownership of Pimlico Race Track and a track at Charles Town, W. Va. He said the title of the act did not adequately describe its contents as required by the constitution.

He also rejected as unconstitutional the bills to set up pension programs for former governors and former legislators.

LaVale Drug Dispute Filed In Court Here

Stotler Seeks Firm Receiver

Robert P. Stotler, 927 National Highway, LaVale, has filed a petition in Allegany County Circuit Court against LaVale Drug Store, Inc., 1068 National Highway, and other interested parties seeking the appointment of a receiver for the defendant corporation and an injunction to prohibit disposal of assets of the corporation.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris has signed a show cause order and temporary injunction giving the defendants until May 24 to show cause why the relief sought should not be granted. The injunction temporarily restrains the defendants from acquiring, transferring or converting any of the assets of the corporation other than in the usual and proper course of business. The defendants may move for dissolution of the temporary injunction at any time upon three days' notice.

Mr. Stotler, in the petition filed for him by Attorney John M. Robb, states that he brings the action as a director of the defendant corporation who owns 24 shares of its capital stock.

Defendants in the case besides the corporation are Robert J. Martin, who also owns 24 shares of the capital stock; Harry Eisen-trout, as a de facto member of the board of directors of the corporation, and Mr. Martin and C. William Gilchrist as co-executors of the estate of Lester R. Martin, who owned 52 shares of the outstanding capital stock of the corporation. Lester R. Martin died January 2.

Mr. Stotler contends in his petition that on July 26, 1956, he, Robert J. Martin and the late Lester R. Martin, then owners of the entire outstanding capital stock of the defendant corporation, entered into an agreement among themselves.

This agreement, he contends, provided that in the event of the death of any of the three stockholders, the corporation should purchase from the estate of the deceased all of his stock.

No Audit Made

The plaintiff further charges that subsequent to the death of Lester R. Martin no action was taken by any of the defendants to order an audit or purchase the stock of decedent from his estate.

On February 7, 1963, Robert J. Martin was instructed by the corporation's board of directors to order an audit of the corporation by its auditor, Earl F. Yetter. Mr. Stotler contends that Mr. Martin has failed and refused to order such an audit.

Besides the appointment of a receiver and granting a temporary injunction, Mr. Stotler makes other requests of the court in his petition. He asks that Mr. Martin and Mr. Eisen-trout be directed to turn over all assets and records of the corporation to the receiver. He also petitions the court to direct Mr. Martin to return to the corporation money he has received during period when he was not working full time for the corporation.

Finally, he asks for $100,000 in punitive damages.

Renaud Tells Of Subdivision Proposition

Rules Require Three Plats

Under the proposed subdivision regulations for Allegany County, three plats must be submitted for all major subdivisions, according to C. Lee Renaud, county planning director.

The County Planning and Zoning Commission has scheduled a public hearing on the subdivision regulations for 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, May 14, in the main court room on the second floor of the Court House.

All interested citizens are invited to attend and provide the commission with the benefit of their comments and specific recommendations.

Sketch Plat First

Under the subdivision regulations, the developer first submits a sketch plat to the County Planning and Zoning Commission to indicate his intentions as to how he proposes to develop this land.

Mr. Renaud pointed out that there is a free exchange of information between the developer and the planning commission in an effort to keep the developer fully aware of information that might affect his development.

The sketch plat is coordinated with the overall master plan to the county, current zoning regulations and sanitary and Health Department requirements.

After the developer gathers this information, he is then prepared to submit a preliminary plat and make final application to the planning commission. The preliminary plat is reviewed by the commission on the basis of adequacy of traffic circulation, tie in with existing street patterns, buildability of lot shapes, safe intersections, conformance to zoning and the official master plan for the county.

As soon as the preliminary plat is received by the planning commission it is forwarded to all departments concerned so that they may have an opportunity to review each subdivision as to its conformance with their individual requirements.

Conforming Lot

Mr. Renaud pointed out that this assures a lot purchaser in an approved subdivision that he will have a lot that will conform to all county requirements and in addition will have a reasonable guarantee that adequate utilities and improvements will be available.

Many times a lot is purchased with little or no investigation as to what improvements or utilities will be provided. Later on when maintenance or snow removal is required the lot purchaser is dismayed to learn that this service is not available. By requiring that all improvements and utilities be installed in accordance with county standards, the lot purchaser is assured that county maintenance will be provided.

Ultimately, the developer must submit a final plat, which is one that must be filed legally. The planning commission reviews this plat to make sure that requirements of all departments have been carried out and a performance guarantee has been provided by the developer to insure that the proposed improvements are made. After this plat is recorded, the developer then will carry out his complete program and lease his lots.
